A Pub...

“It is the busy man’s recreation,
The idle man’s sanctuary,
The stranger’s
welcome,
The Inns of Court
man’s entertainment,
the scholar’s kindness,
and the citizen’s
courtesy.”

– John Earle

Beer Definitions

Ale – Top fermented at higher temperatures. Most ale styles originate with the brewing traditions of England, Ireland and Scotland.

Bitter – British ales, usually bronze to deep copper in colour, heavily hopped, giving them a high degree of hop's bitterness.

Bock – (German for goat) Aged lager. Dark, either sweet or dry, more potent. Often displays toasted chocolate or nutty flavors. Does not come from the dregs at the bottom of the tanks, all Bock styles are lagers.

Brown Ale – Sweet and dark, Brewed in Northern England.

Hops – The seasoning and preservative. Its bitter flavor balances the sweetness of the malt, while its aromatic oil gives flavor and aroma. Helps prevent the beer from spoiling and improves its foam stability.

Lager – Bottom fermented at cooler temperatures. This style of brewing was developed in the cold, mountainous areas of Germany.

Malt – The source of fermentable sugars, Grain which has been steeped in water and allowed to germinate, it's then kilned to stop growing.

Pale Ale – Malt is dried rather than roasted, resulting in a lighter bronze or copper colour, and a lighter, less hearty flavour. Pale generally refers to the colour and the malt used in the brewing process.

Pilsner – Gold to light amber colour, malty with a noticeable caramel accent; medium, crisp bitterness. Medium hop flavor and aroma; medium to full-bodied.

Porter – A blend of pale ale and brown or stout. Highly roasted malt, less pronounced hops, slightly sweet. This style was developed in London in the early 1700's. At one time it was extinct, but it has been revived in recent years.

Stout – Rich, malty flavor usually combined with a strong, bitter hops taste. Dark, almost black in colour due to the highly roasted malt.

Yeast – The essential assistant. Converts sugars into alcohol and carbon dioxide. Brewer's yeast consists of two main types; ales and lagers.

Well Done Toasts

"Meet you under the table."

– Traditional toast

"To our best friends, who know the worst about us but refuse to believe it."

– Traditional toast

"Life atlas is very drear, up with the glass, down with the beer."

– Louis Untermeyer

"Here's to a long life and a merry one. A quick death and an easy one. A pretty girl and an honest one. A cold beer and another one."

– Irish Saying

"Let us sing our own treasures,
Old England's good cheer...
To the profits and pleasures of stout British beer..."

Your wine tippling,
dram sipping fellows retreat...
But your beer drinking Britons can never be beat.

The French with their vineyards and meager pale ale...

They drink from the squeezing of half ripe fruit.

But we, who have hop-yards to mellow our ale...

Are rosy and plump and have freedom to boot"

– English drinking song, circa 1757
